and sunrises, and many of its facilities and public areas will boast nearly 270 degree views of the ocean.

Terranea will offer 63,000 square feet of meeting and banquet facilities and 20,000 square feet of retail space. The hotel grounds will include an amphitheatre, wedding terrace, 3 pools with cabanas and walking paths with breathtaking views of the coastline. The resort will feature ocean view restaurants that extend from the hotel on grand terraces; a stand-alone specialty restaurant called the Vicente Cottage Restaurant, and the Point Bar perched on the bluff edge. The resort will also feature a 25,000 square foot world-class spa and fitness center and an executive 9-hole golf course, both overlooking the ocean and Catalina Island. The completed project will provide over 2 miles of public trails, a 2.2 acre public park, public parking, and public beach access. Taking full advantage of its south-facing location, the resort will offer breathtaking views of both sunsets

It has been more than 20 years since Marineland of the Pacific closed its doors, leaving 102-acres of prime coastal land virtually uninhabited, with the exception of weddings at the Catalina Room and the occasional film shoot. All that changed after the March 2007 ground-breaking ceremony when an army of construction equipment and personnel arrived to begin the monumental task of transforming this magnificent stretch of land into the Terranea Resort and Spa.

At this time, the site grading and the steel frames of the main hotel building are nearly complete, as is the wood framing of the casitas and villa structures. Interior work on the main hotel is anticipated to begin in June 2008. Plantings of native flora have occurred along the western and eastern bluffs and the public coastal access trail is near completion. Motorists on Palos Verdes Drive South have no doubt noticed the new traffic signal at the main entrance to the site at Terranea Way, which was recently erected in correlation to the project.

A concept of developer Lowe Destination Development, Terranea (formerly known as the Long Point Resort) has been designed as a seaside luxury escape offering a variety of accommodations and amenities to entice visitors and locals alike. The focal point of the development will be the 360-room main hotel structure. Visible from Palos Verdes Drive South, the structure appears to be two and three stories high, but actually steps

The developer has placed high importance on incorporating and paying tribute to the Peninsula's local history and natural environment as part of the project. Not only are native plants incorporated throughout the development, but the buildings are influenced by Spanish and Mediterranean architectural style,

SHERIFF REPORTS RASH OF HOME AND CAR BREAK-INS

We are very fortunate that, among its many attributes, the Palos Verdes Peninsula is a low crime area. However, that doesn't mean that crime never occurs here. In recent months there has been a rash of residential and vehicle burglaries in the community. According to the Lomita Sheriff's Station, so far this year there have been 26 residential burglaries and 44 vehicle burglaries reported in the City. In approximately a third of these cases, the break-ins were "crimes of opportunity" where entry was gained through an unlocked door or window.

THE SANCTITY OF THE HOME

The fact is that although the Sheriff's Department provides excellent service for our community, the Peninsula is geographically spread out and filled with thousands of homes. It is unrealistic to think that law enforcement alone can suppress all crime in the area. All residents need to do their part to assist in reducing the opportunities for crime in their own neighborhood. There are several meaningful things that residents can do to "harden the target" and lower their risk of becoming a victim.

- Lock all doors and windows whenever you leave. Most residential burglaries occur during warmer days when windows have been left open. A screen is not a walk will take place on paved, gently sloping trails along the bluff edge.

Saturday, June 28, 2008 ~ 10:00 a.m.

OCEAN TRAILS AT TRUMP NATIONAL GOLF COURSE

Walk the Western Bluff Preserve to observe endangered gnatcatchers while enjoying the beautiful vistas of the coastline.

Magnificent ocean views, secluded canyons and beautiful wildflowers! Join the Los Serenos de Point Vicente docents as they lead guided walks through spectacular public trails. Hikers should wear comfortable walking shoes and a hat, and bring a small bottle of water. Walks are two hours long and no reservations are required. Parking is free. Heavy rain the night before, or rain the day of, cancels the hike or tour.

Park to the left of the Club House in the public lot at the end of Ocean Trails Drive.

Sunday, July 27, 2008 ~ 3:00 p.m.

The City provides comprehensive training for all new volunteers (docents), including in-depth information on the natural and cultural history of the Palos Verdes Peninsula, with an emphasis on the surrounding marine and terrestrial habitats. Field trips, local walks and guest speakers enhance the docent learning experience. For more information about becoming a docent, or to schedule a hike or tour for a school, scout troop, or other organization, please call (310) 544-5264 or visit the City's website at www.palosverdes.com/rpv.

FORRESTAL NATURE PRESERVE

This docent-led educational hike will take you through the coastal sage scrub habitat of the beautiful Forrestal Nature Preserve. Learn more about the local geology, plants, and animals. The hike will begin at the end of Forrestal Drive, off of Palos Verdes Drive South.

Saturday, May 24, 2008 ~ 10:00 a.m.

Mediterranean architectural style, reflecting early development of the Peninsula by the Spanish and later by the New York developer Frank A. Vanderlip's desire to create a Mediterranean paradise hugging the coast along the Peninsula. Tribute is also paid to former Marineland, as 45 original trees from the aquatic park have been preserved and boxed to be later replanted throughout Terranea's grounds. According to Todd Majcher, Vice President of Lowe Destination Development, the trees "strengthen Terranea's sense of place and historical context."

Terranea Resort and Spa will be managed by a wholly owned subsidiary of Lowe Enterprises: Destination Hotels and Resorts, which currently operates 32 independent, luxury and upscale hotels, resorts and golf clubs in the nation. It is clear that the developer and management group envision that Terranea Resort and Spa will become another flagship project. The project is on schedule for completion in June 2009. In anticipation of the resort's grand opening, Bob Lowe, President of Lowe Destination Development, shared "We look forward to Peninsula residents viewing this as their home away from home. We very much want them to view Terranea as just an extension of their community."

To receive email updates on the status of the project, including updates on the periodic closures of the coastal access trails, go to the City's website at www.palosverdes.com/rpv and become a list-serve subscriber for the project. For more information on the Terranea Resort and Spa, visit the developer's website at www.terranee.com. Inquiries on the project may be directed to the City's Principal Planner Ara Mihranian at 310-544-5228 or via email at aram@rpv.com.

SWIMMING POOL SAFETY TIPS

PROTECT YOUR YOUNGEST WATER ENTHUSIASTS

As the days grow longer and temperatures warm up, there's nothing more inviting, especially for children, than spending time enjoying the backyard pool. While pools provide hours of fun and exercise, water and children can be a deadly mix when an unsafe environment, inadequate supervision or improperly used safety gear is also present. Sadly, drowning is the fourth leading cause of death to children under five years old nationwide. In some states, such as California, Florida and Arizona, drowning is the leading cause of accidental death to children under five.

Drowning, which can happen in as little as one inch of water, is usually quick and silent. Being non-swimmers, young children usually don't have time to scream, yell for help or show any sign of distress before drowning. A child will lose consciousness two minutes after submersion, with irreversible brain damage occurring within four to six minutes. The majority of children who survive without neurological consequences are discovered within two minutes of submersion, and most children who die are found after 10 minutes. As many as 20 percent of near-drowning survivors suffer severe, permanent neurological disability, the effects of which often result in long-lasting psychological and emotional trauma for the child, his or her family and their community.

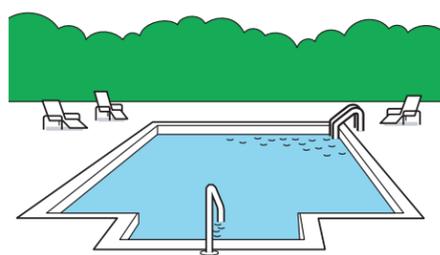

No one device or solution can prevent all childhood drownings. Instead, a multifaceted strategy, including active supervision by a designated adult, safe water environments, proper gear and education, is required to ensure children's safety in and around water.

PROVIDE ACTIVE SUPERVISION

- Never leave children unsupervised in or near the pool, even for a moment.
- A designated adult who knows CPR should actively supervise children at all times, especially during pool parties and other social events when there are many distractions.
- Practice "touch supervision" with children younger than 5 years. This means that the adult is within an arm's length of the child at all times.
- Do not rely on flotation devices as a substitute for supervision.

CREATE A SAFE WATER ENVIRONMENT

- Install a barrier fence at least 60 inches high around all four sides of the pool to completely separate it from the house and play area of the yard. Most young children who drown in pools wander out of the house and fall into the pool. Use access gates that self-close and self-latch, with the release device located at least 54 inches above the ground. All access gates should open outward, away from the pool.

- After the children are done swimming, secure the pool so they can't get back into it. Place tables and chairs well away from the pool fence to prevent children from climbing into the pool area.
- Remove all pool toys from the water after use so children aren't tempted to reach for them. Keep all other toys away from the pool area, because a young child playing with the toys could accidentally fall in the water.
- A pool safety cover that meets the standards of the American Society for Testing and Materials (ASTM) may add to the protection of your children. Never use a pool with its pool cover partially in place, since children may become trapped under it. Always remove the cover completely when the pool is in use.
- Make certain that all doors leading from the house to the pool area have a self-closing, self-latching mechanism with the release no lower than 54 inches above the floor. Limit access to the pool by locking doors, windows or gates whenever swimming cannot be supervised.
- Additional protection may be provided by exit alarms installed on doors providing direct access to the pool. Swimming pool alarms, when placed in pools, will sound upon detection of accidental or unauthorized entrance into the water.

HAVE THE PROPER GEAR

- Keep a first aid kit and rescue equipment (such as a shepherd's hook or life preserver) by the pool.
- Have a telephone at poolside to avoid having to leave children unattended in or near the pool to answer a telephone elsewhere. Keep emergency numbers with the poolside telephone.

BE EDUCATED

- Teach your children to swim. Three to five years of age is the best time for swimming lessons. However, do not consider young children "drown proof" just because they have had swimming lessons; young children should always be watched carefully while swimming.
- Instruct babysitters about potential hazards to young children in and around swimming pools and the need for constant supervision.
- Learn CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) and insist that grandparents, babysitters, and others who care for your child also know CPR. Post the CPR instructions in the pool area.

Owning a swimming pool is a wonderful amenity for your home, but with it comes a tremendous responsibility to prevent accidental drownings. Constant vigilance and providing multiple layers of protection are the keys to preventing tragedy and enjoying your pool to the fullest. For more information on swimming pool and spa safety requirements, please check the link below or call the City's Building and Safety Division at (310) 541-7702. MARINELAND MEMORIES STILL STRONG

Since its unveiling in July 2007, visitors have flocked to the Marineland Remembered exhibit at the Point Vicente Interpretive Center to re-live the magic of "Marineland of the Pacific." This temporary exhibit explores the impact and legacy of the West Coast's first oceanarium. Featured exhibits and timeless photographs, including a dolphin trainer suit and full-size whale models, have brought back a flood of nostalgia for this well-loved, marine theme park that was popular with visitors from August 1954 until its closing over twenty years ago. Originally planned as a temporary exhibit to be on display for one year, popular demand and appreciation for the exhibit have prompted it to remain open for at least another year. Thousands of visitors from across the USA and around the world, along with many former Marineland employees, have recorded their favorite memories and stories of killer whales Orky and Corky, Bubbles the Whale, the Baja Reef, and many other magical moments in a special exhibit journal. The City's Los Serenos Docents spent countless hours procuring, preserving, and displaying hundreds of pieces of Marineland memorabilia. Come be a part of Marineland's continuing legacy. The Point Vicente Interpretive Center is open 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. daily.

deterrent, because it's easy to slice open.

- Sliding glass doors should be secured with a floor bar or, better yet, a floor lock.
- Consider installing an audible burglar alarm.
- Don't leave garage doors open or unlocked, even when you're inside your house.
- Do not leave items of value in unsecured yards and supervise all hired workers.
- When hiring individuals, get a full name, address, and telephone number and verify their information before they start working.

SMASH AND GRAB TACTICS

Criminals generally break into cars at night and in the early morning hours, unless the vehicle is parked in a commercial, school or park location. In these cases, the crimes occur during the day or on weekends, especially at schools and parks. The criminals typically walk down a street at night, glancing in cars looking for valuables. Using a flashlight, they can generally see through tinted windows and onto the floorboards. Once they decide to steal, they try the doors. If the door is open, they steal the items and continue down the street looking for more opportunities. If the car is locked, they can easily shatter a window, often without creating a loud noise or setting off the alarm.

Purses and wallets make up the majority of items stolen, followed by cell phones, laptop computers and gardening and construction tools. Most of the time cars are locked when these items are stolen, because people foolishly believe that if the car is locked, everything will be safe. Keys and garage door openers are often taken because they can be used to open other vehicles, garages and homes. The perception that car stereos are the most frequently stolen items is not true. It takes time and some skill to remove a stereo in good enough condition to resell. Most criminals prefer small items that can be just grabbed.

Another common belief is that cars parked in the driveway are safe. Although parking in the driveway may be somewhat of a deterrent, items left inside are also vulnerable to theft. Apartment secured garages become targets when thieves are able to obtain garage door openers. People tend to be more complacent when parking in secured garages and often leave their cars unlocked. Here are a few tips to remember to reduce your chance of becoming a victim of vehicle burglary:

- Always lock your car and roll the windows all the way up, all year round.
- If possible, park your car in a locked garage and remove all valuables. This includes garage door openers, portable GIS systems and iPods.
- Never leave your keys in your car, or your car running while you're away from it.
- Purses and wallets are a special danger to leave inside your vehicle because their theft can lead to identity theft.
- If you have to occasionally leave an item in the car, put it in the trunk, out of sight.

Law enforcement officials often say that crime prevention starts with common sense and a heightened awareness of your surroundings. In addition to making their homes and cars less attractive to criminals, residents should always keep an eye on what's going on in the neighborhood, look out for each other and report suspicious activity immediately to the Lomita Sheriff's Station by calling (310) 539-1661.

DO YOU KNOW ALL PVC HAS TO OFFER?

Visit the Point Vicente Interpretive Center Gift Shop to find that special gift for friends and family. Come view the beautiful assortment of hand-made jewelry, pottery, and paintings by local artisans; or take home a nature-themed ornament, sculpture, or card.
