RPV PARTNERS WITH RHE TO MITIGATE NATURAL HAZARDS

CITIES TO IDENTIFY HAZARDS, ASSESS RISK AND ANALYZE VULNERABILITY

The Cities of Rancho Palos Verdes and Rolling Hills Estates have recently teamed up to prepare a Multi-Jurisdictional Natural Hazards Mitigation Plan covering both communities. Focusing on natural hazards most likely to affect our area, such as earthquakes, brush fires, landslides and tsunamis, the purpose of the plan is to identify ways to minimize potential property damage, injury and loss of life caused by natural hazards before they occur.

To encourage local communities to engage in more pre-disaster mitigation planning, Congress passed the Disaster Mitigation Act of 2000. This law requires all local, county and state governments and special districts to prepare a Natural Hazards Mitigation Plan by November 1, 2004. Failure to comply will result in the loss of post-disaster funding from the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) for any natural disaster that may befall a community after this date.

The two cities decided to prepare a joint plan because our communities share the same geography and will be impacted by the same natural hazards. By preparing a joint plan, the cities will also minimize the cost of this mandatory project.

The joint plan is being prepared with the assistance of a consultant and with input from the City's Building & Safety, Planning, Public Works and Finance Departments, as well as the Los Angeles County Sheriff's and Fire Departments, Palos Verdes Peninsula Unified School District, Palos Verdes Peninsula Chamber of Commerce and local utility companies. The plan will be divided into two parts. The first part will include sections on hazard identification, risk assessment and vulnerability analysis. The second part of the document will include separate sections for each city identifying their respective mitigation actions.

Beginning in August, the draft plan will be available for review at City Hall and on the City's website at www.palosverdes.com/rpv/emergency\_preparedness. In late August, the City's Emergency Preparedness Committee will hold a public meeting to receive public input on the draft plan. In September, the draft Natural Hazards Mitigation Plan will be presented to both City Councils for adoption. Residents are encouraged to review the draft plan and participate in the public hearing process.

The City invites public input on potential natural hazards in our community and historical information on natural disasters that have occurred on the Palos Verdes Peninsula. For more information, please contact Carolyn Petru, Assistant City Manager at 544-5203 or at carolynn@rpv.com.

LIBRARY DISTRICT CELEBRATES SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS

FROM SINGLE ROOM TO VIRTUAL LIBRARY

Just over 78 years ago the Los Angeles County Free Library agreed to establish a branch library in a single room in the Gardner Building at Malaga Cove, beginning a long tradition of outstanding library services on the Palos Verdes Peninsula.

The Palos Verdes Library opened on June 1, 1926 with 660 books and a small collection of magazines. Library hours were 3 to 5 P.M. Tuesdays and Thursdays and in the first month of operation 287 items were circulated.

That first little library grew into the Palos Verdes Library District which is celebrating its 75th Diamond Jubilee this year. In July of 1929, following a nearly unanimous vote of Peninsula residents and the approval of a $90,000 bond issue for the construction of a new library building, the Library Board authorized withdrawal of the library from the Los Angeles County Free Library System and the Palos Verdes Library District became an independent entity.

From a single room library serving the small community at Malaga Cove, the District has become a three-branch library system serving over 65,000 residents of the Palos Verdes Peninsula. The three libraries are open 137 hours each week, and circulate over 50,000 items each month. The initial collection of 660 books and a few magazines has grown to over 25,000 items – including not only books and magazines, but also audio books, compact discs, DVDs, and videos. Last fiscal year the District recorded over 623,000 individual visits to the library – that's the equivalent of nearly 10 visits by each Peninsula resident each year!

And those statistics do not include the Library District's website, www.pvld.org. Visitors to this "virtual library" can search the library catalog, renew their books, place holds, conduct research using databases containing more than 10 million articles, find out about library programs and services, and even get help from a librarian – all from the comfort of their home or office, any time of the day or night, 365 days a year.

Today's library is not just about getting books and information, either. Each year over 30,000 people attend educational, informational, and recreational programs put on by library staff, volunteers, and community organizations. Programs range from story times to author talks, from concerts to crafts, from Internet classes to cooking demonstrations, and from book clubs to chess clubs....the list is endless.

During 2004 the Library District's 75th Jubilee celebrations include special Jubilee programs each month. From "Cooking with Chef Christine" to "Art in our Library", there is something to interest everyone.

Unfortunately, like public agencies everywhere, the Library District finds

DO SOMETHING ABOUT YOUR DOG'S BARKING

Dogs bark for many reasons. Some breeds, such as hounds, huskies and herding breeds have been bred to be vocal. Other dogs bark out of fear or defense of their property. However, many dogs bark out of boredom, loneliness and frustration. The first step in addressing excessive barking behavior is to identify the reason for the dog's behavior.

Loneliness: Dogs are pack animals and require companionship to be happy and well adjusted. If the dog is kept exclusively outdoors, separated from his human family, he barks to voice his loneliness. The best solution is to allow the dog to live indoors. If this is not possible, a second dog that is not predisposed to barking can provide companionship. In any event, always make sure you spend time with your dog every day.

Protectiveness/Fearfulness: Being located next to a busy sidewalk, stairwell, a playground, or other area of high human activity will cause dogs to bark. Find a location on your property where the dog will be the least exposed to these triggers and provide a crate (if indoors) or doghouse (if outdoors) for the dog to retire to.

Lack of Socialization: Well-socialized dogs are less likely to bark excessively out of fear or protection, since they have been positively exposed to a variety of new situations, people and other animals. By living indoors as part of the family, dogs learn what is acceptable behavior.

Provide Distractions: If your dog barks when left alone, provide toys to occupy his attention only when you leave. Good diversions are Kong toys (available at your local pet supply retailer) that you can stuff with kibble, peanut butter, or other treats. Rotate the toys so your dog doesn't become bored with them.

TRAINING TIPS TO MODIFY EXCESSIVE BARKING BEHAVIOR

- Never pet or soothe your dog if he is barking from fear. Any positive reaction will only reinforce his behavior and make it more difficult to control.
- If your dog is barking to demand something – a toy, treat, car ride, etc. – do not give in. Wait until he is quiet to reward him.
- Teach your dog the "Quiet" command using a squirt bottle filled with water and lemon juice. When your dog barks, immediately squirt him in the mouth, and say "Quiet!" Your dog will learn to cease barking to avoid the negative response.
- Praise and reward your dog when he is being quiet. Dogs want to please, and will learn you like it best when it is quiet.
- Never hit, kick, or hold your dog's mouth shut. This will only teach your dog to fear you and may cause aggression problems.
- As a last resort, use a bark collar. Since bark collars do not address the underlying cause of the problem they will not be a permanent solution. Besides the traditional electronic bark collar, the alternative is the Citronella collar. This collar contains a reservoir of citronella solution that sprays under your dog's face every time he barks.

Dog owners are responsible for maintaining and caring for their dog so as not to create a public nuisance due to excessive dog barking. For more information on how to curb excessive barking, call County Animal Control at 310-523-9566 or your local veterinarian or visit <http://animalcontrol.co.la.ca.us/html> further cuts to library services they need your help. If you value the services and programs the Library District provides you can help by:

- Making a donation
- Volunteering your time
- Participating in the "Adopt a Book" Program
- Giving used books to the Friends of the Library book sales
- Shopping at the book sales and the Peninsula Center gift shop itself facing budget pressures that may lead to cuts in programs and services. Since 1992 over $12 million of property tax revenue has been diverted from the Library District to state coffers, and the state budget crisis means further erosion of property tax revenue is possible. When lost revenue is coupled with rising costs, it becomes harder and harder to offer the level of library service that Peninsula residents enjoy today.

In the face of budget pressures, District officials are implementing cost-cutting measures like leaving vacant positions unfilled, restoring the fee for audio books, and trimming the book budget. To prevent

FORRESTAL NATURE PRESERVE

A PLACE TO HIKE AND EXPLORE

The Forrestal Nature Preserve is 160-acres of natural beauty that contains one of the City's best strands of undisturbed Coastal Sage Scrub, a plant that serves as habitat for the California gnatcatcher and is also the host plant for the Palos Verdes blue butterfly. The Preserve is located at the terminus of Forrestal Drive, north and west of the Ladera Linda Community Center and the Portuguese Bend playing fields. It offers panoramic views of the Pacific Ocean and Catalina Island from its network of trails and viewing areas. Historically, this property was once mined by the Livingstone Truck and Material the City continues to oversee its maintenance.

The Preserve is open to the public during regular City park hours that extend from one hour after sunrise to one hour before sunset. Although the features of the property are dramatic, portions of it are extremely sensitive and can be dangerous.

Since the Forrestal Nature Preserve is home to rare and threatened native plants and animals, the public's assistance is essential in protecting these special resources. Trail users should stay on trails and dogs should be leashed at all times. All trash should be packed out, and hikers should avoid the cliff areas and abide by the warning and safety signs posted throughout the site. All motorized vehicles, skate boarding, roller skating and roller blading are prohibited from the Preserve. Campfires and paint-ball activities are also prohibited. If these activities are observed, violators should be reported to the Lomita Sheriff's Department at 310-539-1661 or to the Public Works Department at 310-544-5252.

Inquiries pertaining to the Forrestal Nature Preserve should be directed to the City, attention Senior Planner Ara Mihranian at 310-544-5228 or via e-mail at aram@rpv.com or to the attention of the Palos Verdes Peninsula Land Conservancy, attention Executive Director Barbara Dye at 310-541-7613 or via e-mail at bdye@pvplc.org.

Company that ceased its operations in 1956. The area was later slated for a residential development project, however, to preserve the site's natural condition while providing passive recreational opportunities, the City purchased the property in 1996.

After the City purchased the property it entered into an agreement with the Palos Verdes Peninsula Land Conservancy for management of the Preserve. Under the agreement, the Conservancy utilizes its expertise and volunteers to undertake the day-to-day management while RECYCLERS OF THE MONTH CAN WIN $250!

When you get your July billing from Waste Management or Universal Waste Systems/Ivy Rubbish, look for the Recycler of the Month entry card. Fill it out and mail it to City Hall. Twice monthly at City Council meetings, one of these post cards

CITY TO REVIEW RESIDENTIAL DEVELOPMENT STANDARDS

SETBACKS, LOT COVERAGE AND DENSITY

In recent years cities throughout Southern California, including Rancho Palos Verdes, have witnessed record construction of new homes and the modernization of existing homes. This housing phenomenon is partly due to increased property values, the lowest interest rates in 30 years, and people spending more money on homes to make them meet their needs. As new and remodeled homes pop-up citywide, concerns have arisen about their compatibility with the surrounding housing stock and the preservation of established neighborhoods.

In response to these concerns, in 2002 the City Council formed a Steering Committee to review the City's Neighborhood Compatibility requirements. Last year, the City Council updated these Neighborhood Compatibility requirements based on the Steering Committee's recommendation. (See "Making the Old Compatible with the New" Fall 2003 Newsletter.) At the same time, the Committee also recommended that the City Council form a committee to review the City's residential development standards that were written nearly thirty years ago for structures that were significantly different from those being built today. To follow through on this recommendation, the Council established the Residential Development Standards Steering Committee to review development standards such as setbacks, lot coverage and lot density. Typically, these standards are applied to new home construction and remodel projects. The Committee is comprised of two members of Council, two Planning Commissioners and seven members of the community. Their task will be to evaluate the effectiveness of the current code in relation to new housing trends. The Steering Committee will then make recommendations to the City Council about possible amendments to the Municipal Code that will address the concerns relating to current development patterns.

For more information regarding the Residential Development Standards Steering Committee or to convey concerns that you would like addressed by the Steering Committee, please contact Ara Mhrianian with the Planning Department at 310-544-5228 or via e-mail at aram@rpv.com.
