

cycle update, most cities in Southern California, including RPV, did not have their Housing Elements approved by HCD by the original October 15, 2021 deadline, which would trigger the need to rezone to accommodate their RHNA allocations by October 15, 2022. To provide relief, a state law (SB 197) passed in late June 2022 now gives these cities a one-year extension to rezone. To seek that extra time and avoid penalties, these cities are now being urged by HCD to adopt their Housing Element Updates by August 15, 2022 for submittal and review by HCD.

Although the City had hoped to have more time to work on the final draft, we will now be releasing the Final Draft Housing Element sooner than anticipated as a result of these developments. The Final Draft Housing Element will be uploaded to the City website at rpvca.gov/housingelement on August 5. The Final Draft and environmental review will go before the Planning Commission on August 9 and then be considered for adoption by the City Council on August 11.

Please stay tuned for meeting information in the coming days or visit rpvca.gov/housingelement to learn more. If you have questions or would like to share your comments, please email them to housingelement@rpvca.gov.

Thank you for your interest in the Housing Element Update.

July 20, 2022 LAX Community Noise Roundtable Meeting Summary

On July 20, 2022, the LAX Community Noise Roundtable held a regularly scheduled meeting to discuss noise concerns caused by passenger jets arriving and departing from LAX. See attached agenda. During the meeting, Los Angeles World Airport (LAWA) staff distributed passenger jet data for flights that occurred in May and June (attached).
